KIDS BEATING CANCER is on a mission to advance cures through the science of cutting-edge treatment at the Kids Beating Cancer Pediatric Transplant Center at Florida Hospital for Children, while providing resources and support for children with cancer, leukemia and related life-threatening diseases throughout the treatment process. Every year the organization hosts the Hats & Heroes Ball in an effort to raise funds for its many treatment-related programs.

This year's "top secret" gala, 007 Shaken not Stirred, will be a night of James Bond-themed excitement where "spirits will be shaken and souls stirred." Arrive at the Waldorf Astoria Orlando "dressed to kill" in Bond black tie, Bond girl or Bond villain attire. Participate in silent and live auctions while dancing along to the music of Michael Andrew and his Orchestra with special celebrity guest artists, who will deliver the iconic theme songs — Live And Let Die, Goldfinger, Skyfall, Thunderball and Diamonds Are Forever. This action-packed evening will commence at 5pm on Saturday, October 1, with a VIP reception, casino games, music and martinis.

Year-round planning by a dedicated committee makes this elegant, themed affair come to life. "A successful night for Kids Beating Cancer is the culmination of innumerable hours, days, weeks and months of tireless effort put forth by our committee. This — largely volunteer — force of outstanding individuals has a passion to help children and their families at their greatest time of need," says Hats & Heroes Chair Jessica Kendrick.

The Hats & Heroes Ball is also made possible by the donations of generous sponsors and attendees. Individual tickets and sponsorships starting at $3,500 are still available. To find out how to become a sponsor or to purchase individual tickets, please visit kidsbeatingcancer.org.
